Major Expansion for CCT Venues' Canary Wharf Conference Centre

CCT Venues, the London-based training and conference specialist, is doubling the capacity of its Canary Wharf conference centre with the addition of an east wing, which opens in February.

The east wing will be a self-contained facility - with its own address, Walbrook Building - and has eleven rooms on one floor and a maximum delegate capacity of 275.

The main rooms have large windows, many with waterfront views, and there are two large waterside terraces, and a dedicated computer zone with PCs and free internet access. There will also be a separate waterfront atrium restaurant and new, "fresh bean, fresh milk" self-serve coffee machines providing a range of top-quality drinks.

The expansion allows CCT Venues-Canary Wharf to be run as two separate suites, or one large venue with 25 rooms on one floor, a maximum delegate capacity of 495, four waterside terraces, and two restaurants with a combined capacity of 250 - all just eight-minutes walk from Canary Wharf station and four minutes from South Quay DLR.

Like all CCT Venues conference and training centres, the east wing will offer a comprehensive range of facilities including free Wi-Fi access, the latest AV equipment, DDA compliance and good facilities for the disabled. The day delegate rate will be just £68.50 + VAT, with discounted rates for large bookings.

Caroline Bull, CCT Venues' managing director, said: "We launched the Canary Wharf centre, our third London venue, in July 2008, and we were surprised and delighted to find that we had outgrown the facility within a matter of months. We believe this is because we offer an unbeatable package of convenience, quality and value for money.

"Because of the recession the combination of these elements has become increasingly important to a growing number of companies, and the business case for expanding the Canary Wharf site became too strong to ignore. We are confident that the same package that is attracting new firms to us now, will keep them with us in the future."

Venue address: CCT Venues-Canary Wharf, Walbrook Building, 195 Marsh Wall,
